I know I would have no feeling of speed even though I were flying (so impatient would I be to reach you). 10-11 desire . . . fiery race my desire to be with you, being made of the most perfect kind of love, like a horse, will neigh in the excitement of its fiery race to reach you, unlike the dull horse on which I am riding. 12-14 But love . . . to go but I will thus excuse my horse who, out of love for me, walked slowly in taking me away from you. I will let him go on slowly, while I run to reach you before him. This seems to be the general meaning of these obscure and much debated lines. jade a horse of inferior quality. go walk.

Thus can my love excuse the slow offence Of my dull bearer when from thee I speed: From where thou art, why should I haste me thence? Till I return, of posting is no need.

O, what excuse will my poor beast then find When swift extremity can seem but slow? Then should I spur, though mounted on the wind, In winged speed no motion shall I know.

Then can no horse with my desire keep pace: Therefore desire of perfect'st love being made, Shall neigh (no dull flesh) in his fiery race;

But love, for love, thus shall excuse my jade: Since from thee going he went wilful slow, Towards thee I'll run and give him leave to go.

SONNET 52. So am I as the rich whose blessed key Can bring him to his sweet up-locked treasure, The which he will not ev'ry hour survey,

For blunting the fine point of seldom pleasure. Therefore are feasts so solemn and so rare, Since, seldom coming, in the long year set,

Like stones of worth they thinly placed are, Or captain jewels in the carcanet. So is the time that keeps you as my chest,

Or as the wardrobe which the robe doth hide, To make some special instant special blessing: By new unfolding his imprison'd pride,

Blessed are you, whose worthiness gives scope, Being had, to triumph, being lack'd, to hope.
